

Escort Radar Detectors - A Non-Bias Review

On the journey to driving in a hurry comes a huge speed bump - cops. We all speed some time in our lives and the feeling of being paranoid for getting pulled over shouldn't be felt. There are lots of justified reasons for speeding - business meetings, hospital visits, family emergencies or even your kid's big game. The thing that the law doesn't seem to leave room for is exceptions.

Fortunately, there has been a solution to help cope with this problem - radar detectors. Before proceeding to purchase just any radar detector, get one that is proven - the Escort Radar Detector.

Escort Radar Detectors exceed all standards in every aspect. One of the first things that I noticed about them was how accurate the readings were. Not only was I able to detect cops before I even saw them, but the Escort Radar Detector had significantly less false alarms as some the other ones that I have tried. The reason for this is that the Escort Radar Detectors actually detect both frequency and the band. This is important because nothing sucks more than to get 10 false beeps before getting one that actually matters.

Since owning the Escort Radar Detector, I have been able to avoid many speed traps and go without getting any speeding tickets. Don't think that my driving behavior has any representation on why I haven't gotten caught. I am a pretty aggressive driver and I need to have a reliable radar detector to keep me away from trouble. Without it, I'm sure that I would have accumulated many speeding tickets. In fact, I had a cop who is a good friend set up a speed trap for me just to see if I would be able to detect it. I did, and he was more impressed than I was. That's how accurate these units are.

Some of the features that you will notice with the Escort Radar Detector its 6 segment LED meter. This display is exceptional for a radar detector. It fits so much on the screen. You can even set it to something called the ExpertMeter setting where it will display 8 separate signals, each having a 7-segment signal strength. It also has a plethora of other options like Dark Mode, Safety Warning System and a LOT more.

When I buy products, I hate buying something that never lives up to its claims. If anything, one of the things that encouraged me to purchase my Escort Radar Detector was the lack of huge claims. I guess it is true that the ones who don't brag know their products work. This is precisely the case with Escort Radar Detectors.
